REVELATIONS ABOUT BIRTHDATE OF Jean Baptiste MORIN de Villefranche

Three significant epigraphic discoveries will alter public attitudes towards Morin and astrology.

1 - The native data astrologer Morin is false, only his baptismal act

February 23, 1583 date given by all dictionaries as birthdate of Jean Baptiste Morin, is only the on of his baptism. The act found in the archives of the Rhone, published by Astroemail in its 130 edition does not contain in it wording nor day nor hour of birth. Only writings about the catholic ritual made.

Popular practice at that time was to observe a survival period of the newborn, between birth and baptism, gives a deviation band of some weeks and many more months, between birth and access to the human community by religious baptismal rite.

2 - His native biographical data falsified

The official biography in French , Morin Life, published post mortem agreement with Royal Censorship Board May 26, 1658 (Morin died November 6, 1656 at 2:00 am) stated under the benefit of a confusion voluntarily maintained, born on February 23 (date of baptism) in mandatory terms : " It is undisputed that Jean Baptiste Morin was born in Villefranche the twenty-third of February 1583 at 8:34 am ... ". A first attempt at rectification

Morin Life Biography published in French in 1660 with agreement of the royal censorship

Latin Biography, Vita, published a year later on 1661, with the same agreement censorship, has a different wording with 2 conflicting mentions of birth, also counterfeit. One, a 3 lines paragraph written in the form of an act, declares born March 7, 1583 at 8 am 34. The other, a side note, with the date of 23 February 1583 without specifying birth, baptism or hourly. In short, a baptism before birth.

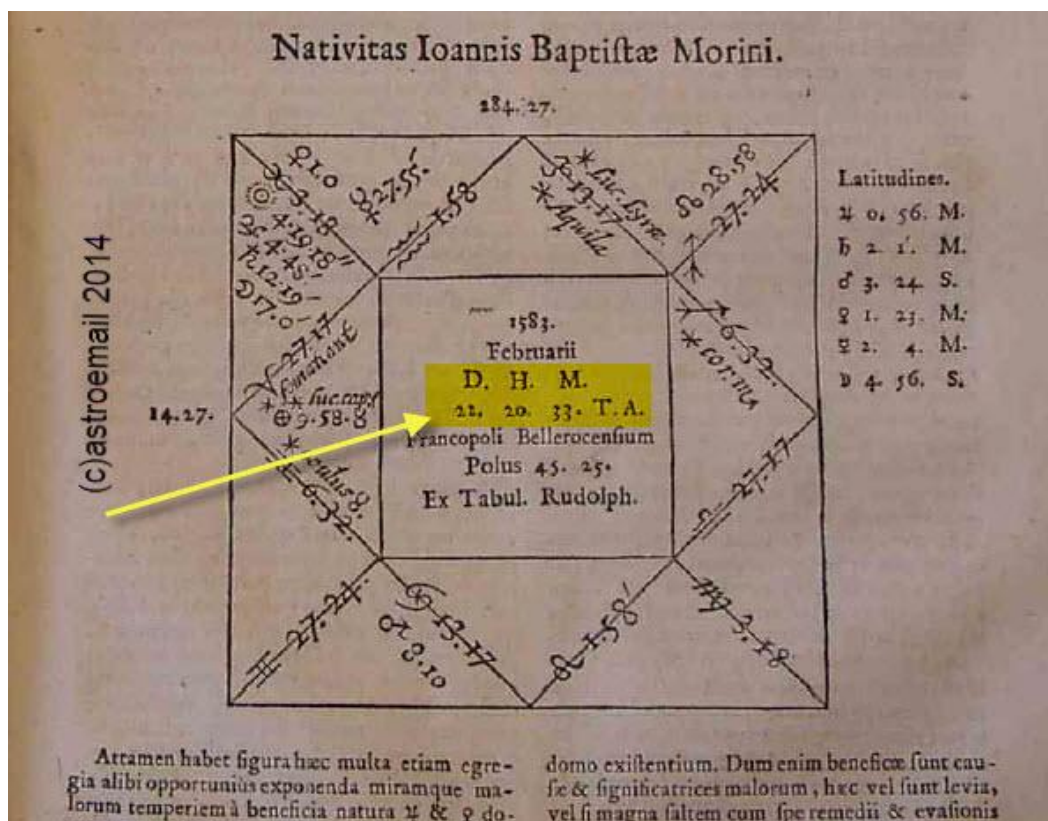

The two contradictory statements VITA 7 March 1661 and 23 February 1583. Septimo calendas Martias follows natus " I was born on March 7, " ... and on February 23 in marginal note .@astroemail

3 - The posthumous work of Morin publishes a false birth chart with a third new date

Astrologia Gallica, (unsure) major work of Morin, explains the theory of astral determinism of an astrologer, from his baptismal act.

Is Morin manipulated, or not, the public to persuade of his birthdate and time entirely fictitious ? instead of his baptism !

His book reproduce three times, a false map of alleged Morin's sky, dated February 22 , 1583, instead of 23 , with a new schedule to 8:33 p.m. . To persuade the reader of the validity of his theory that the planets inexorably determine the course of human life , with demonstrations using subjectivism methods. Including a posteriori rationalization of its existence on a fictitious date

Several elements of Morin Life presented in his Biographies are false. As exposed in details by Astroemail, giving specific examples. Including a role of surgeon, never been, at service of the Bishop Claude Dormy. At this time it was at order of Guillaume du Vair, official ministry of Justice King Louis XIII.

Is Morin's book totally or partly apocryphal, suspect and inauthentic? Particularly with 3 different dates in the printed edition of Astrologia Gallica.

Several Morin's predictions presented as illustrious, are also false. Including consideration of king Louis XIII sky, when the king's illness in September 1630 in Lyon, Morin said he received directly by Cardinal Bérulle order to examine the king's figure. But Bérulle died eleven months before, on Oct. 2, 1629 . An extremely unusual case of astrological request consultation for a living person directly from Heaven.

The use of three false dates , for the same person to demonstrate that his life was rationally determined by the stars. These are three too many.

The true Morin's birthdate, after intensive researchs, is now known. We have 3 different proofs, from Morin living life, soon we will publish it.
